- 1 My grandparents were sad when I told them I would leave because I wanted to get a good education and a good job in Sydney. We are the traditional owners of our land and they hoped that I would stay and take good care of it one day. Yesterday I was offered special training and a good job by the engineering company that wants to expand in our area. When I told my grandparents that I would stay they were unhappy again. They think the company wants to "buy" me first and then take our land. I want to have a good life and respect our traditions.

Water is a major problem in India. In some areas there is too much, especially during monsoon rains. Last year hundreds of people died in the floods. In other areas in India droughts cause a crisis. People die because there is not enough safe drinking water. Engineers from an NGO came to our village and wanted to help. But some old people didn't want them to help. They believe the gods will help. They pray for water but the rain doesn't come. In my opinion the engineers should be allowed to help us.
