

Vocabulary revision

Film director Mr Day is having some problems with two young actors at rehearsal.

Read the text and fill in the gaps with words which fit the context. Many, but not all, the words are from Text smart 1. There's sometimes more than one possible answer.

Mr Day: No, no, no! We need to start again. –

Do you know what genre _____ of movie this is anyway?

Science fiction _____, with aliens?

James: It's a vampire romance.

Mr Day: Exactly! A romance. So where's the love _____, Amanda? In this close-up _____ shot the viewers are going to see everything in your face. They need to see some emotion _____ !

Amanda: Well, he's a VAMPIRE! How can I feel romantic _____ and in love when he wants to bite me?

Mr Day: But you don't know he's a vampire yet!

Just think of how wonderful he is, and give him some flirty/ sexy _____ looks.

James: He's right. I mean, do I smell bad or something? You look disgusted _____ when you look at me.

Amanda: Er, your breath is kind of bad.

James: No, it's isn't! You're just in a bad mood because your dress is too tight. That's why you look so uncomfortable _____ .

Amanda: Are you telling me I'm fat _____ !?

Mr Day: Now don't get hysterical _____, you two, or I'll find somebody else for your parts/ roles _____ ! So, let's start again. Amanda, this time with feeling _____ !

Amanda: Oh Richard, there's something, so...

mysterious _____ about you. You're so different... But... I see danger _____ in your eyes, something scary and, and –

(throws script down)

Oh, this is such a STUPID script _____ ! Mr Day, find somebody else for this vampire nightmare! And James, do something about your breath. I thought vampires hated _____ garlic, but you can't seem to get enough!

vampire [ˈvæmpaɪə] Vampir (Achtung Aussprache!) ○ garlic [ˈgɑːlɪk] Knoblauch
