India is the seventh largest country in the world and has the second largest population with over 1.2 billion people. It also has the sixth largest economy, which is one of the fastest growing in the world. Mumbai and Delhi are two of the top ten biggest cities in the world. India had been a British colony for a long time until Mahatma Gandhi led it to independence in 1947. Equal rights are a challenge in India because people in India speak many different languages, come from different backgrounds and have different religions. Most Indians are Hindus, but there are also Christians, Muslims, Buddhists and people of many more different religions. As family and tradition are very important to Indian people, marriages are often arranged by parents. India is famous for its food, films, culture, wildlife and interesting history.
